

Major Comparison Chart for East Asian Area Studies and East Asian Languages and Civilizations
Compiled May 2009

Major	Concentration	Total	Language	Gateways	Disciplines	Areas	Seminars	Electives	Honors
East Asian Area Studies (EAST)	n/a	12 CU	4 CU in one EA language, 2 CU at 2 nd year level or above	EALC-001 EALC-002 HIST-120/ EALC-081	1 course each in Arts & Letters, Social Sciences, and History*	1 each in China, Korea, Japan (beyond the gateways) 1 may be East Asia*	2 CU in East Asian seminars (e.g. EALC 200 or 300 level)*	Up to 3 CU; consult with advisor	Non-credit thesis, 3.3 GPA in major
East Asian Languages and Civilizations (EALC)	Chinese	14 CU	6 CU in Chinese	EALC-001 EALC-002	n/a	2 CU at 200 level in EALC Chinese studies	EALC-301	3 CU; consult with advisor	Total 16 CU; thesis
East Asian Languages and Civilizations (EALC)	Japanese	14 CU	6 CU in Japanese	EALC-001 EALC-002	n/a	1 CU at 200 level in EALC Japanese studies	EALC-302	4 CU; consult with advisor	Total 16 CU; thesis
East Asian Languages and Civilizations (EALC)	Dual concentration Chinese and Japanese	18 CU	12 CU total 6 CU in Chinese and 6 CU in Japanese	EALC-001 EALC-002	n/a	2 CU at 200 level in EALC; 1 CU Chinese 1 CU Japanese	EALC-301 and EALC-302	Consult with advisor	Total 20 CU; thesis
East Asian Languages and Civilizations (EALC)	Korean (Individually designed; not currently available)	14 CU	6 CU in Korean	EALC-001 EALC-002 EALC-081	n/a	Consult with advisor	Consult with advisor	Consult with advisor

NOTE: This chart is designed for comparison only, not for definition of any major or concentration. Students must consult with the appropriate department officers (Undergraduate Chair, Pre-Major Advisor, and/or Major Advisor) before declaring a major, and should continue discussing course choices with their Major Advisor until completion of the program.

Students entering with native proficiency in an East Asian language may require additional electives in area studies courses.

*Courses in these categories may overlap in East Asian Area Studies.